Thanks for the Memories
Reflections on 17 Years of Serving GHI
By Gretchen Overduff, Outgoing General Manager

It all started 18 years ago at a cooperative housing conference. I was facilitating a workshop and my colleague was co-training with GHI board member Margaret Hogensen. Some of you may remember Margaret, who served on every committee and board position during her many years in GHI. Margaret mentioned that Greenbelt Homes was looking for an experienced general manager. The rest is history!

I moved to Maryland from Michigan in December of 1993, and began my tenure on January 1, 1994. As the first female CEO, I had my share of challenges in a predominately male-dominated industry. What could a woman know about building maintenance and the physical plant? Interestingly, I first learned about replacement reserve studies when an officer of the co-op I managed traveled to Greenbelt to learn about setting up a replacement reserve and brought back GHI’s member handbook. Little did I know that I would one day be referencing that book in an official capacity.

The decision to come to GHI changed my life forever. I have been faced with challenges that strengthened character and enhanced personal growth. I have been privileged to make the acquaintances of some of the finest folks anywhere, and have enjoyed the respect and cooperation of each board of directors I have served and my staff.

Housing cooperatives are indeed made up of a special kind of people. Folks have the ability to impact the circumstances around their living conditions and environment. Nowhere have I seen this better demonstrated than at Greenbelt Homes. The early values of community activism have brought a lasting legacy of member involvement and concern for preserving the assets that abound in the Greenbelt community.

A housing community of this size requires a large staff to meet the needs of its members and the aging homes in which they live. One of the things I have been most proud of is the service-oriented, dedicated staff of professionals that serve our cooperative. After becoming acclimated to the job, I undertook a major reorganization of the staff. Regular coaching and training occurred with the goal of developing a service-oriented culture where members are served as employees would like to be served. GHI’s first mission and vision statements were developed.

Keeping in touch with members

'Word of mouth' seems to be a time-honored tradition of exchanging information in GHI. Sometimes, though, word of mouth can be inaccurate. And it's not always fast enough. And it doesn't reach everyone equally. A cooperative the size of GHI has to depend on other means of communication to keep members informed about upcoming events and decisions about the future. The Board and GHI staff are committed to making information available to members.

Here's how we do it currently:

1. The Communicator newsletter. This newsletter is delivered to every member's door, on a quarterly basis. Thank you for reading it now!

2. The 'GHI News in Review' page in the Greenbelt News Review newspaper. This is a new feature that allows us to get information out to members more quickly. The newspaper is delivered to all homes in Greenbelt, and extra copies are always available at the Coop Supermarket.

3. The website, www.ghi.coop. The revamped GHI website is beautiful, and better organized to help members find what they're after.

4. A new Facebook page. Social media users can friend us at Greenbelt Homes.

5. A new Twitter feed. Follow us on #GHImgmt.

Other communication outlets have been proposed as well, and we'll be evaluating what is feasible to do with limited staff and a volunteer board. As you'll see in this issue, the results of the Communications Survey show that many members are interested in email communications, so we will be looking at the many types of options available.

If you have ideas for how to improve GHI communications, please contact your board members or staff. And when you do read official GHI publications, please use that 'word of mouth' technique to help us spread the word to other members who might not have seen it.

Thanks for being an informed member!

Over time, employees developed a cadence of accountability as they learned that outstanding performance and commitment to the job bring rewards and recognition. GHI’s first employee appreciation program was established. Seeking and retaining qualified employees has become a key task of the HR department and many employees have a lengthy tenure.

My experience as a former teacher and community mediation facilitator has been especially useful. Where there are people, there will be a variety of challenges. Our senior staff has become adept at handling conflict and finding solutions to vexing problems.

We have survived record-breaking snow, hurricanes (Isabel comes to mind), fires and environmental scourges such as mold, lead and asbestos. We made the transition to Y2K without incident, and survived the temporary relocation to a portable office while the administration building was upgraded. We have worked through the recent real estate tax change, embraced advances in technology, and are now communicating through online social networks.

Serving as general manager of Greenbelt Homes is a commitment in which you pledge to serve the people of this cooperative community in a way that means doing whatever it takes to get the job done. I couldn’t have asked for a more positive or rewarding experience. I leave GHI with many warm memories and treasured friendships, and with gratitude for all that I have learned. I hope that I have made a difference in the way we do our work, with the people who care for your homes and by helping to shape the future direction of the cooperative. I hope to see many of you during the coming weeks. Thank you for trusting and supporting me these seventeen years.

WHO’S WHO AT GHI
By Brenda C. Lewis

Sheri Swaim
Sheri joined GHI at the end of January 2008 as the Executive Assistant to the General Manager. Her role has since expanded, and as Special Assistant to the Management Office, her new duties include responsibility for enhancing GHI’s communications—especially social media; serving as the staff liaison to the Communications Committee, and working on marketing projects.

Sheri recently took and passed the certification exam for a community manager, offered by the Community Associations Institute (CAI). She also has a background as a small business owner and is a trained Therapeutic Family Mentor.

Sheri loves walking around the lake on her lunch hour, and reading various local listserves and social media, which keep her up-to-date. When asked what she likes most about working for GHI, Sheri did not hesitate; she likes “the atmosphere of respect and camaraderie, especially in the management office.”

Monica Johnson
The new face behind the reception desk belongs to Monica Johnson, newly hired in July to the upgraded position of Administrative Assistant in Member Services. Monica comes to us after 15 years working for a non-profit on Capitol Hill. She brings considerable experience and talent, including working with boards, planning meetings, researching grants, collecting member data, designing and updating websites, and developing promotional material. We are pleased to have her join the GHI family.

Breaking News: August Earthquake

A few instances of superficial drywall cracks have been reported, but no significant damage has been observed in GHI units as a result of the August 23 earthquake. If members observe any cracks or shifting within their unit, please notify the GHI maintenance department to initiate an inspection.
Communications Survey Results
195 Members Respond

In May and June, 195 members responded to the Communications Survey, roughly 12% of the total number of GHI households and a significant survey response rate. The feedback was thoughtful, and illustrated the varied needs of our community. Surveys were distributed at the annual meeting, in the summer Communicator, and on the website, with responses received from all three areas.

Three quarters of the responders, or 75%, agreed that both the Communicator and the GHI ‘News in Review’ (GNIR) page should continue to be produced. Nearly all responders (98%) said that they read the Communicator newsletter, and 89% agreed or strongly agreed (evenly split) that it was valuable. The majority of members, 58%, prefer the newsletter to be hand-delivered, but a significant 30% would like to receive it electronically.

Most responders (84%) had seen the new GNIR page and over three quarters, 77%, agreed that it was valuable (again, evenly split between agreed and strongly agreed).

There were 81 comments, or 41%, with many suggestions. Concerns were expressed about the cost and time spent to do both communications vehicles. Many members would like more use of e-mail and the web, particularly for announcements and updates, but many others do not have access to this medium and enjoy having a hard copy to read. The Communications Taskforce will be working with the board to review the different options for more use of electronic communications in the coming months.

Based on the results of the survey, the Board agreed that the Communicator should continue to be published, but on a quarterly basis instead of bi-monthly, and the ‘News in Review’ page can be produced up to twice a month as resources permit.

A big THANK YOU to all who responded!

Member Musings:
Walking Dogs and Making Friends
By Lauren Cummings

My partner and I moved into GHI a few months ago and several friendly neighbors warmly welcomed us into our court. I wanted to move past the parking lot niceties to make friends and gain community. Thankfully we have two reasons to get out and meet people...dogs. You would be surprised how many people are out at 6:00 a.m., the wonderful GHI paths are heavily used during our daily walks.

Through the simple act of walking our dogs, we have found friends and a sense of community. Jeanelle and Anthony invited us over for the court wine hour they host, Kelly and Scott loaned us a dog harness, Tim and Jackie invited us to their Fourth of July BBQ, and Anya and Clark issue serious game night challenges. I wouldn’t have guessed that in a short three months we would have met so many new friends and neighbors.

Tonight, as I was walking home from a GHI Communicator Task Force meeting, I briefly met Sweetie and her owner, whose name of course I didn’t get. That’s how it usually is with dog owners; you learn the dog’s name and never the owner’s. In my first month in GHI I had a similar experience; another dog walker and I introduced dogs and then turned to walk away. The other woman turned back and said ‘let’s not do this. I’m Libby,’ and she pointed out where she lived. It was refreshing and it’s a constant reminder of what can happen when we open ourselves to moments of spontaneous community. There are so many things we have in common. It’s why many of us chose to live in GHI, but there are also so many unique differences between us.

I challenge you to open your eyes to the community around you and to dedicate a little more time to "walking the dogs" so we can all get to know each other a little better.
Fall Yard Care Is In the Bag
By Matt Berres

The weather will soon be getting cooler, the days shorter and fall will soon be here. Check out these fall garden tips.

1. Planting. Cooler weather is perfect for planting grass, bulbs, shrubs, and trees. Look for flowering bulbs on sale at garden shops. Don’t forget those fall blooming flowers such as mums and New England asters.

2. Pruning. Fall is the right time to trim those lower tree limbs and prune shrubs for better form. Privets, viburnums, forsythias, and many other branching shrubs can benefit from rejuvenating pruning. Remember any limbs over 8 feet are GHI responsibility. Call the GHI maintenance office to schedule elevated pruning work.

3. Mulching. A good layer of mulch will help overwinter flowerbed areas and improve soil quality. Free shredded mulch is available at the Northway fields. Or you can simply rake fallen leaves in bed areas. Remember don’t apply mulch more than 2-3” deep.

4. Leaf Removal. A great way of removing leaves is to use a lawn mower to shred the leaves into your lawn area. This adds valuable organic material that improves the soil. Yard waste can also be composted in your yard. Composting information is available at http://ghi.coop/content/woodlands-links.
